Evan Brown

Coastal California Troubadour

> "A mix of the salt air, LA nights, and classic renditions of the soundtrack of California from the last 60 years."
> EVAN BROWN, ON HIS SOUND

Evan Brown is a singer, guitarist and songwriter who's been playing professionally since he was twelve. Country clubs, resorts and private hosts across Southern California book him to set the mood for the night, solo, as a duo or with a full band.

SOLO · DUO · FULL BAND · ORIGINALS + CLASSICS

Ideal for country clubs · resorts · weddings · corporate & private events · upscale venues

About Evan

Evan was born and raised in Redondo Beach, surrounded by songs as the son of professional musician and songwriter John F. Brown, and the two still share the stage. All that time in front of a crowd shows. He knows how to read a room and carry a night with warm vocals and guitar.

Since 2016 he's become a trusted name at upscale venues, with past residencies at Rolling Hills Country Club and California Surf Club and a steady calendar of private events, weddings and corporate gatherings.

He writes his own songs, too. ASCAP has recognized his compositions, his songs were used in The Strand: A Beach Musical (where he also starred as Kai), and his 2012 EP 220 Lincoln brought in players from Oingo Boingo and Eric Burdon & the Animals. He studied music and theater at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, and you can hear the Beatles, Jackson Browne, James Taylor, Jack Johnson, Bob Marley, Tom Petty and Sublime in the way he plays.

Off stage, Evan is Technical and Curriculum Director at Fantasia Family Music, a nonprofit, and a band director in Torrance Unified.

PRESS

"...rounded, confident wordsmith, with tunes to match."

"His soulful, sunshine approach to his music places him in a group of likeminded performers that includes well known names like Jack Johnson and Matt Costa."

Leicester Bangs, review of 220 Lincoln (January 2013)
